

This castle stands on Monte Murano, at the entrance of Gola della Rossa. The entire territory is included within the Parco Naturale della Gola della Rossa di Frasassi, whose headquarters are here. The name is the sum of Serra, which would indicate a narrow place, longer than wide, and San Quirico, patron of the town, the child who was martyred with his mother Giulitta in the first centuries of Christianity. In recent years the municipality has developed a significant industrial activity, but very interesting is also the local production of wine by talented producers of the industry.

//